You playing soccer or something?
Nope, I just fell.	She was kind of, you know, her mind was slipping a little bit and we were lucky enough to interview her before she passed away.
Oh my goodness. Is it painful?
It is debilitating. It means that I'm trapped.	So we have a good two hour interview of Beverly and Dale somewhat. Dale chimed in here and there before they both passed away.
I need to defecate that there's no way to get to the bathroom.	So it's on Kindex. I'm getting it transcribed right now.
I need to urinate and there's no relief.
It's, it's problematical, but I'm all things considered,	It might be something fun for you to listen to or read. You can do either or.
	You're doing a great job.
I'm still doing fairly well.
Did you hear about Beverly Clark?	Oh, well thank you.

Do you know who Beverly is?	Pernecey Bagley and Pamelia Dunn.
I think she must be your cousin or?	So that was interesting.
She is.	You could hear about that.
She's your cousin, yeah.	So how's your book coming along, Glenn?
So Dale, her husband passed away recently.	Your book?

The book that you've been writing.	You're a lucky man to have her as a wife.
At the moment, it's in a state of arrested develop- ment.	You know that, right?

That's right. Well, it's a superb facility.	So that's what the dispute was about?
Well good.	The Bruff family in Randolph has for years insisted that Deacon George came from Hertfordshire.
They do their best and it is actually rather good.	I admit that there are clues that lead one to believe that to be possible.
