Title:
Provenance:

Category: Image
Person: Walter Edward Clark
Date:

The image shows a couple walking together. The man is on the left and the woman is on the right. The man is wearing glasses, has receding hair, and is dressed in a long-sleeved shirt with a pocket on the left chest, where it seems he's placed his hand. The woman is also wearing glasses and has her hair styled in a manner typical of the mid-20th century. She is wearing a buttoned-up blouse or jacket and appears to be carrying a large handbag in her left hand. Both individuals are looking towards the camera with neutral expressions on their faces.

In the background, there are blurred structures that could be buildings, indicating that this picture might have been taken in a town or city setting. There is also what appears to be a fence and other indistinct figures that suggest a public outdoor space, possibly a park or a promenade. The attire of the couple and the style of the photograph suggest it may have been taken in the mid-20th century.
